Advisory

3. The amendment will not be entered because the listing of claims does not identify any proposed changes.

5. In view of applicant's response pointing out support in the original specification for the subject matter added to the claims by the previous amendment, the 35 USC 112 rejection has been withdrawn.

7. The 35 USC 103 rejections are proper for the reasons stated in the Final Action and will not be withdrawn. The argument that Tolson does not teach "full closure" of a barrier in response to a "brief button press" is not persuasive because the claims are not limited to "brief button press" causing "full closure" of the barrier. The claims language would have been obvious in view of the actuation of push button C for operation in the close direction in Tolson (col. 2 lines 58-62) and a one key depression sequence to close the door in Kaplan (col. 10 lines 56-63). In response to applicant's argument that combination of Kaplan and Tolson would change the principle of operation of Kaplan, the test for obviousness is not whether the features of a secondary reference may be bodily incorporated into the structure of the primary reference; nor is it that the claimed invention must be expressly suggested in any one or all of the references. Rather, the test is what the combined teachings of the references would have suggested to those of ordinary skill in the art. See In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981).
